

To facilitate and accelerate digital collaboration between partners, the SIMID consortium decided to use the AirCollab service provided by the European Aerospace Digital Hub called BoostAeroSpace.

Created by EADS / Airbus, Dassault Aviation, Thales and Safran, AirCollab was launched in April 2011.

Two other services (AirDesign and AirSupply) are provided by BoostAeroSpace to improve cooperation among the aviation industry community.

For more information visit this website: www.boostaerospace.com