

During the 7th annual technical forum of Aerospace Valley dedicated to its members, the SIMID project was presented. This forum was held in the South West of France.

The members showed a great interest in the challenges to be overcome within the framework of the project.

Aerospace Valley is a world competitiveness cluster in Aeronautics, Space and Embedded systems which gathered more than 500 members as large groups from aeronautics, SMEs, laboratories and universities.

For any further information, please visit: www.aerospace-valley.com